

Science and Public Policy

VOLUME 46 NUMBER 3 JUNE 2019

Contents

Main Articles

- Setting up a dynamic framework to activate gender equality structural transformation in research organizations 321
Evanthia Kalpazidou Schmidt and Marina Cacace
- Regulating risks within complex sociotechnical systems: Evidence from critical infrastructure cybersecurity standards 339
Aaron Clark-Ginsberg and Rebecca Slayton
- How the Benefits, Results and Barriers of Collaboration Affect University Engagement with Industry 347
Renato Garcia, Veneziano Araújo, Suelene Mascarini, Emerson G. Santos and Ariana R. Costa
- Institutionalized inequity in the USA: The case of postdoctoral researchers 358
Monica Gaughan and Barry Bozeman
- Empowering political participation through artificial intelligence 369
Paulo Savaget, Tulio Chiarini and Steve Evans
- How policymakers' demands for usable knowledge shape science-policy relations in environmental policy in Poland 381
Katarzyna Kowalczevska and Jelle Behagel
- Paths of Baltic States public research funding 1989–2010: Between institutional heritage and internationalisation 391
Teele Tõnismann
- Achieving the social impact of science: An analysis of public press debate on urban development 404
Terhi Esko and Juha Tuunainen
- Organisational responses to alleged scientific misconduct: Sensemaking, sensegiving, and sensehiding 415
Serge P. J. M. Horbach, Eric Breit and Svenn-Erik Mamelund
- Balancing evolving logics: Business model change in the Leibniz research museums 430
Carolin Decker-Lange, Marie-Noëlle Singer and Florian Schrader
- The precautionary principle at work: The case of neonicotinoids and the health of bees 441
Alan Patterson and Craig McLean
- Collaboration patterns of mobile academics: The impact of international mobility 450
Jue Wang, Rosalie Hooi, Andrew X. Li and Meng-hsuan Chou
- Research funding programmes aiming for societal transformations: Ten key stages 463
Flurina Schneider, Tobias Buser, Rea Keller, Theresa Tribaldos and Stephan Rist
-